THE WATERTOWN HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1959

PRESENTS

THE FORTY-SEVENTH EDITION OF

THE ORBIT

Travelers spend long hours of study in the pursuit of excellence.

Education a Highway to Our Goals

Education is a highway. Over it travel those who are willing to devote long hours to study in the pursuit of excellence. An unquenchable desire for success drives these people on toward the crossroads of their lives. At no time is the road easy to travel, but neither is it ever impossible. Engineered and built by devoted educators, the road today is more heavily traveled than ever before. Its course is upward; its toll is work.

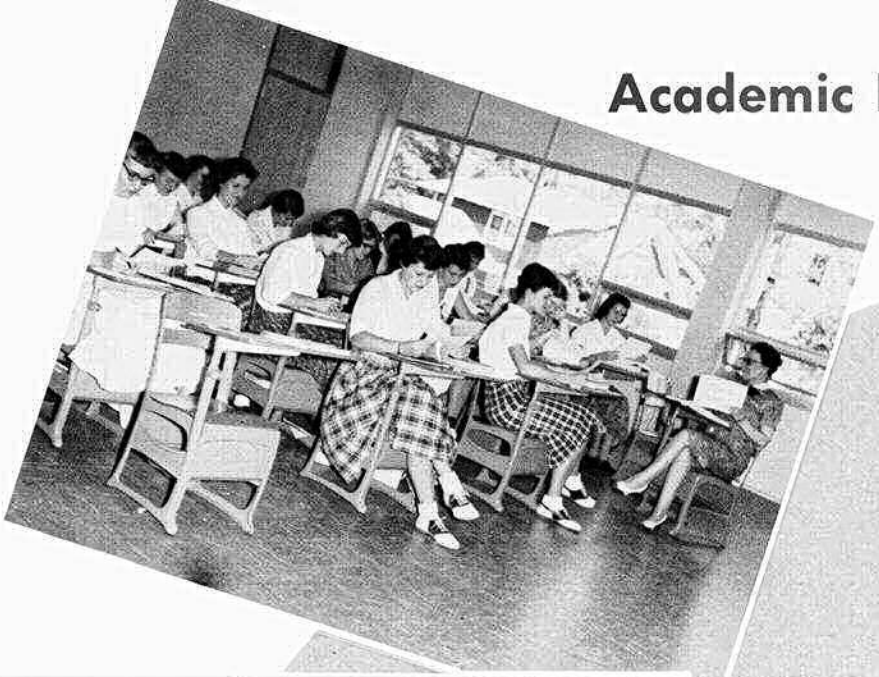

School activities unite the elements of the road.

Almost as important as making the journey itself is making the journey together. The activities in which students participate unite the elements of the road, make it wider, - easier to travel. Herein is formed the intangible, spirit, without which education is nothing. No change of authority, no amount of defeat can suppress desire. It is this which bridges the gap between lifeless books and an erudite society.

Education is a highway, and the crossroads are now so very near....

Academic Knowledge Is the

In College Preparatory English, the students prepare for their future education. This course helps pave the way for advanced study.

Geometry tends to make students think. With mathematics as a basis, they can face life with clearer minds.

Social Science is very important in our modern world. World History helps us understand our fellow man and his problems.

Foundation of Our Highway

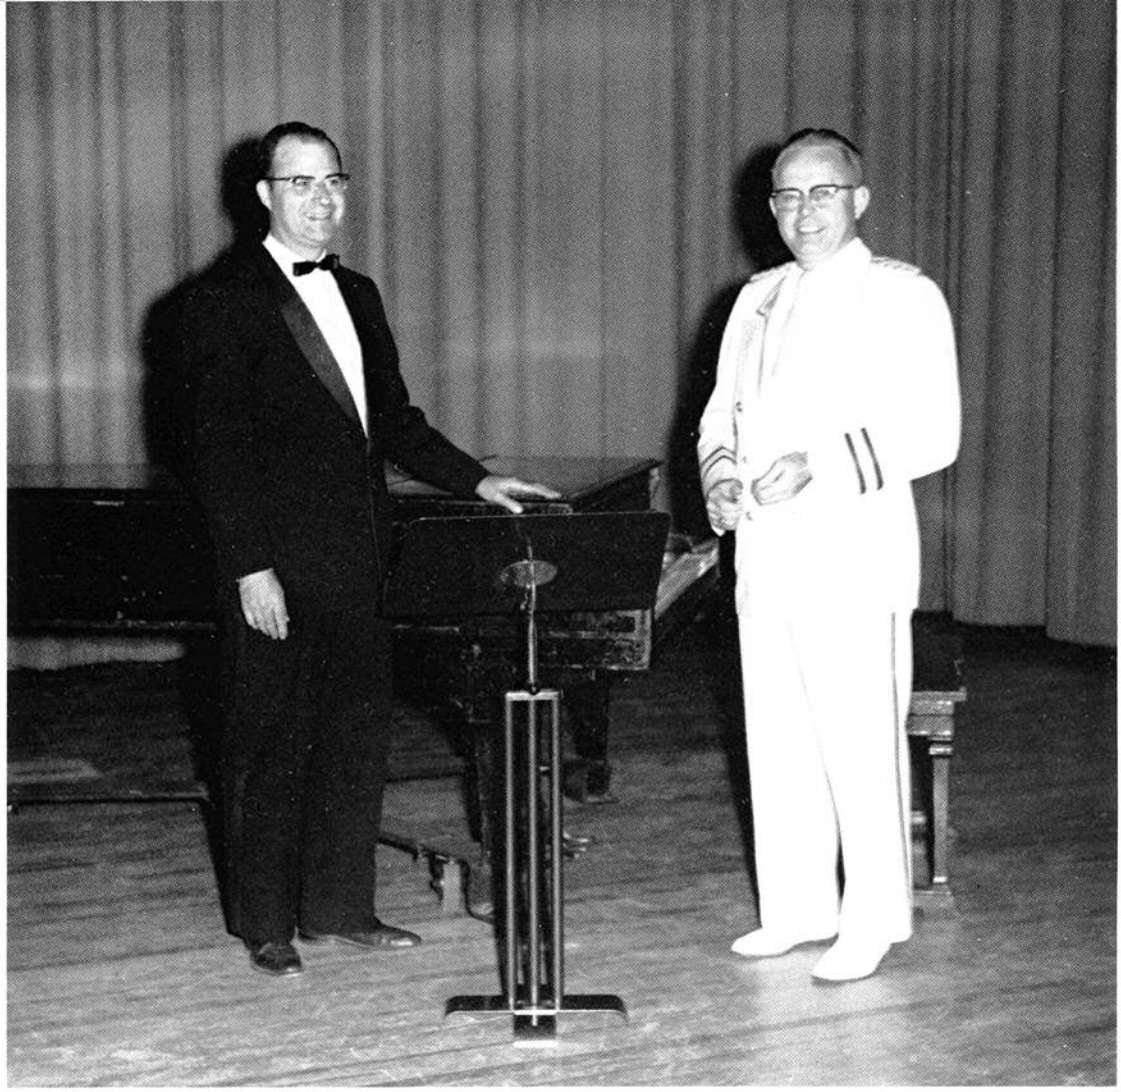

In the library students have every opportunity they need to deepen their knowledge and increase their appreciation for good reading.

Science has come to the fore in the modern age. Chemistry and other sciences offer challenging careers.

Languages are cultural, yet practical subjects. Latin is a basis for the study of other languages and many occupational fields.

By displaying unlimited patience and perservering efforts, this duet of music teachers has developed Watertown High School instrumental and choral talent and has instilled in the school and the community a sincere appreciation of fine music. Because of the exceptional guidance of these men, the band, orchestra, and chorus of Watertown High School can boast of state-wide recognition.

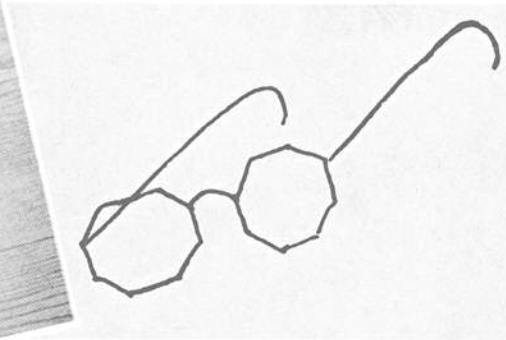

Thus the 1959 Orbit staff respectfully bestows the honor of dedication on

A school annual is a lasting record of school activities for a given year. For those who have been a part of the many events and happenings, the annual holds special meanings. Parents and friends of students take special pride in the fame and fortunes of those whose pictures bedeck the Annual.

In addition to the "personal" and the personnel of the yearbook, there is the artistry of the planners of the book and the literary style of those who contribute verbal pictures to it.

May all who turn the pages of this, the 1959 edition of the Orbit, give thanks to the Orbit staff and its faithful advisor, Miss MacInnis for this, a great book, that lives up to the highest standards in carrying out the purposes for which yearbooks are created.

Progress along the highway toward our goals is impeded by steep inclines, narrow and bumpy trails, unmarked crossroads, and seemingly endless detours. Self-confidence and perseverance are needed to take the longer route to the top of each hill. Slowing down to ease one's way over bumpy trails gives us time to weigh the decision we must make at each crossroad. Detours provide some of the most interesting and valuable experience in life.

Our goal, once selected, must always be kept in sight. Patience is needed to meet the obstacles of the journey lest we fail to appreciate, enjoy, and gain the most from each mile along the way.

Graduation is never the end of a class. Its members may go their separate ways, but always they retain that hunger for togetherness, the desire for mutual success. We have learned together in the classroom, worked together in extra-curricular activities, played together in athletics. Now, in the pit of a giant society, we are alone. Although our classmates cannot be our fellow travellers along the highway to our goals, there will always be others. With the spirit of Class '59 strong within us--the spirit of togetherness and co-operation--the future can hold only happiness and success.

SENIOR MEMORIES

As the members of the class of 1959 don their robes for graduation, they will mark the final milestone in that stretch of education's road called high school. Recalling the vigor and enthusiasm felt as sophomores, the success of their homecoming floats, the splendor of their prom, these seniors embark on a longer journey with pride and satisfaction.

The pride of the class of 1960 is not unique or unlike the pride of innumerable classes which went before it. Undoubtedly there will be many more after us who will feel the same fierce pride in their class.

Each class has its share of athletes, musicians, and scholars, and they all contribute to the pride we feel. My class of '60 has been richly endowed with talent and initiative.

We can be extremely proud of our athletes, outstanding in football, tennis, baseball, basketball, and golf. I'm sure every junior has felt a spark of pride when, as sophomores, our guys were listed on the hallowed A squad.

When the band marches down Main Street, I'm sure you can't miss the first rank. All trombones--all juniors! In the Campus Band and Senior Orchestra we are well represented, and the Mixed Chorus would be in a sad state without the juniors.

Those students who devote all their time to earnest studying are another large part of the pride of our class. So often they go unnoticed and don't receive due praise. We can all be proud of the high average our class has maintained.

Built on a solid foundation of good teaching, extra-curricular activities, and working with others, our class will surely be a success. The greatest pride of the class of 1960 lies in the future!

The other day, I was walking down the school corridor when a cocky, bragging senior began listing in loud tones to a gullible-looking freshman all the achievements of his senior class. I asked him if, when he was a sophomore, he had as much to be proud of as we sophomores have.

He said, "Huh, what have you got to be proud of?"

"Well," I said, "first of all, we are the largest class in school. More of our class are engaged in extra-curricular activities than any other class in the school. We have just finished presenting a very colorful, beautifully-costumed Christmas pageant in an unusual church setting on the new stage of the gym. Most of the well-trained actors were sophomores."

"At the Homecoming parade our float took second place. Where did yours rate? Have you noticed our attractive, agile, progressive cheerleaders at the games? Just give us two years more. Already we have several boys with W's."

The senior gulped, colored, and the freshman laughed as we parted in the corridor.

Class pride, two small words, but I'm sure they are of utmost importance to each and every one of us.

We have a large class. Every kind of personality fits into it. There is room for everyone and an opportunity for everyone to do the best possible.

Our class has many athletes and we're all aware of their importance.

When we entered Watertown High School last year, our eyes lighted upon a complicated network of hallways leading to anywhere and everywhere. It was often that a freshman was seen running down the hall, finally sighting a friend who could tell her where a certain room was and how much time there was to get there. I'm proud to say that we have gained a share of composure and self-confidence since last fall.

Our class has many outstanding students. We're all proud of one another for the work that we do. Those of us who are average try our hardest. We all have great character which often proves to be more important than a keen mind.

As people observe the class of "62", we want them to look with pride upon us. We are certain that they won't feel the pride that we feel for our class, but we hope they will look upon us with elderly respect, not with childish disgust.

When we arrived at Junior High last September, we had reached an important goal. In a short time we all wished to become better students in the classroom. We also wished to become better students in outside school activities.

We were easily distinguished from our upperclassmen. We were younger than the rest, but we didn't let that fact stand in our way. We didn't know our way around, but we learned the exits and entrances fast.

Much was accomplished in this short time. We started on the ground floor in the many activities that our school offers, such as band, orchestra, sports, and the various clubs. Most exciting were the new friends that we made.

There is a pride that we all share--the fact that we are Americans. We have freedom to learn and believe as we wish. If our sights are set and our aim is good, we will make the grade, with the aid of our faculty and school administration.

WHY THE

The two small boys, Holger and Sfeen, had little hope of going to the cathedral for the splendid procession. When they finally reach the great church, Holger views the gifts offered by the royal and the affluent. He despairs that his few pennies could ever be the perfect gift that would cause the legendary chimes to ring. His faith and trust in God, however, give him the strength to offer his token gift. Because he has truly given of himself, the sacrifice is accepted and the chimes ring out.

CHIMES RANG

Seniors back our team.

Broken noses need helmets!

By the Way

. . . do you recall
How late our school doors opened?
And in that time the students all
Were sittin' home and hopin'.

Hoping that school still wouldn't be closed
When Old Man Winter hit;
Thinking that, maybe, despite the grind,
We missed it a little bit.

Orientation Day

But still the school year carried on
For this extra long vacation
As the Student Council supervised
The yearly orientation.

Our Homecoming festivities
Excitement and romance,
The gala weekend climaxed by
The long-awaited dance.

The setting was the high school,
The mood was gay and light.
A "Harvest Moon" was shining
On the dancers there that night.

Soon the spell was broken
As each student, coins in hand,
Went out to buy his Orbit,
Before 'twas even planned.

The year got off to a shaky start,
The heating system was such
That each and every student
Endured and suffered much.

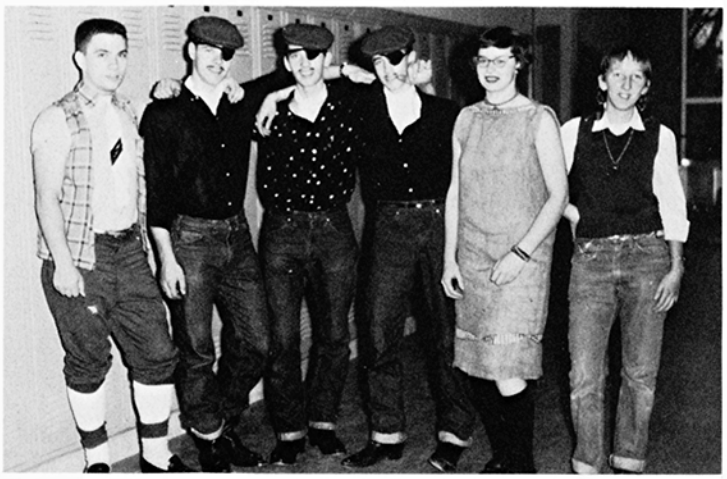

What Gosling won't remember
The days each lad and lass
Wore summer clothes in English
And a coat in physics class?

When Senior gym class started,
Oh, the blood, the sweat, the tears!
We never worked this hard before
In all our high school years.

To think they'd punish seniors so
To gain financial aid.
They know, such labor to avoid
We gladly would have paid!

Sadie Hawkins Day

In school on Sadie Hawkins Day,
Each female sought her match.
And not a girl was "dressed to kill, "
They all were "dressed to catch. "

Our library's new beauty
Left visitors aghast.
As Mrs. Huck sighed with relief
"Three cheers! We've moved at last."

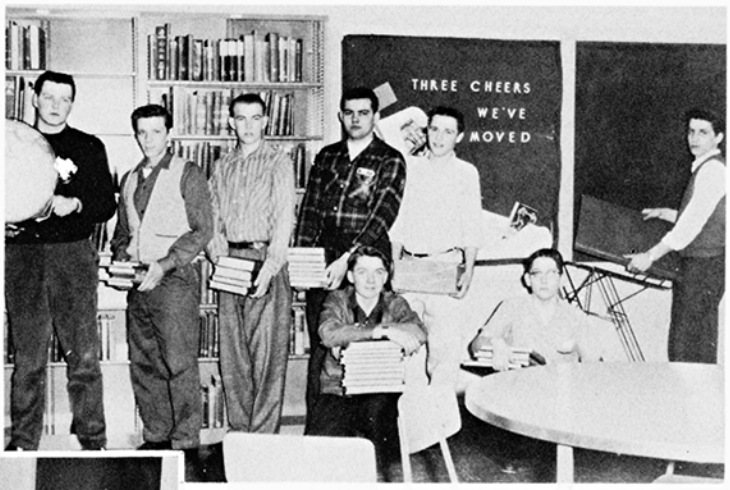

On Valentines Day we learn of all
The ladies' gallant men,
And many occult relationships
Were soon discovered then.

But Miss Gruner's was the highlight of
The scandals since uncovered,
As she received sweet valentines
From countless "secret" lovers.

Then into the picture one Tuesday morn
In the midst of a cold December,
Came fearful, yet cheerful Bomb Scare
Day,
An event we'll all remember.

Remember the day that high school closed
When the wind and snow began
Our evening prayers all ended with
"God bless the weather-man! "

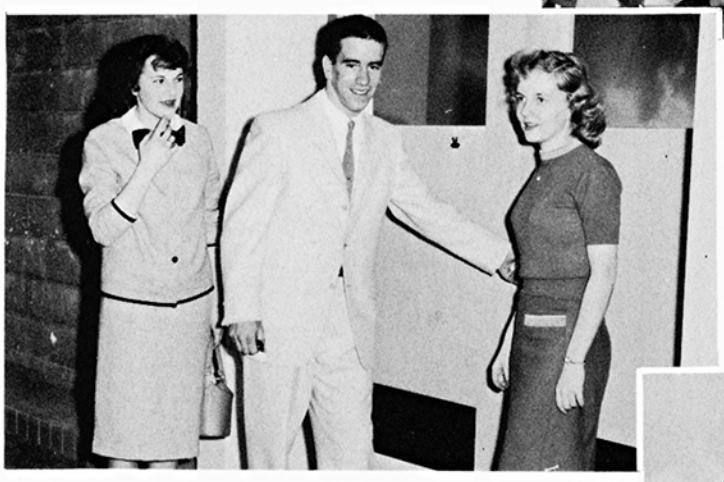

The arrival, the concert, the thrill of it all! -
And each music student says
His heart was beating in time
To the music of Rafael Mendez.

Moving Day

Contestants came, advisors came,
From west and north and south
To the only place where a student is Encouraged to open his mouth.

The importance of forensics
Cannot be overstressed.
It's nice to know that Watertown
Has only the very best.

Forensics Day

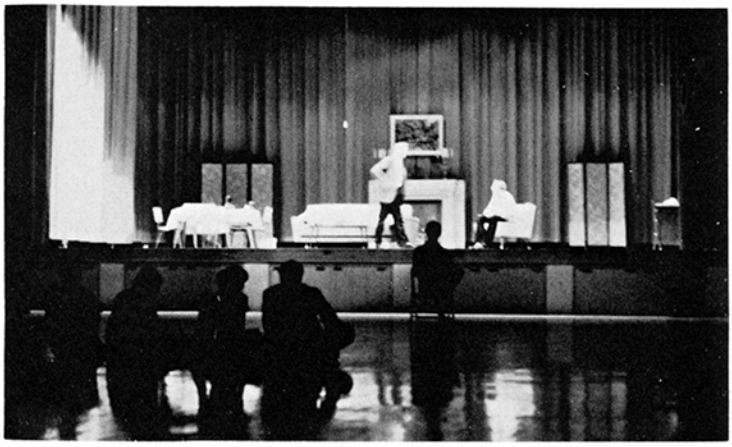

New Lab Day

The love scenes with Kay and Buckley,
Rehearsals late at night,
The fear before the performance,
That everything wouldn't go right.

These things put "Father of the Bride"
On fame's exalted shelves.
But what really made the play a success
Was mostly the senior themselves.

On Eastern tours, with students ills
With their complaints and moaning,
It's more fun to be chaperoned
Than to be chaperoning.

Final Rehearsal Day

Departure Day

At last, for anxious Gosling hearts,
The tenth of April came,
And Prom night brought that sudden thrill
No mem'ry can reclaim.

Bewitched by magic music
The couples all danced by
Enraptured by that sweet,
Enchanted island, "Bali Ha'i".

With reverent praises and happy song,
In serene and solemn sobriety,
Our school accepted the charter of
The National Honor Society.

And seven of our finest were honored as
The first in a long, long line
Of NHS members at Watertown High.
A milestone in '59!

Parents, friends, relations came
To see each son and daughter,
As seniors echoed through the gym
The strains of alma mater.

Tears and laughter were mingled here,
Together we thought as one:
The end of the road is a long way off---
Tonight we've just begun.

A.A.U.W. Tea

Rotary Club Banquet

Special social functions for the seniors are many toward the end of the final year. Two of the most outstanding were the annual A.A.U.W. Tea for the girls and the newly-initiated banquet for the boys, which is sponsored by the Rotary Club.

CLASS DAY

The old-time movie classic, "Foiled Again," provides laughs aplenty for the student audience.

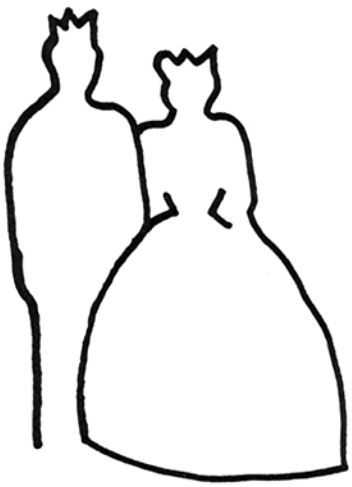

COURT OF HONOR

Ralph Krueger, Joanne Gmeinder, Chuck Harberg, Gretchen Burzynski, Queen Audrey Schlueter, King John Splinter, Joanne Eggert, John Kressin, Susie Kehl, John Ponath.

Larry and Pat emcee the first Class Day festivities in the new gymnasium.

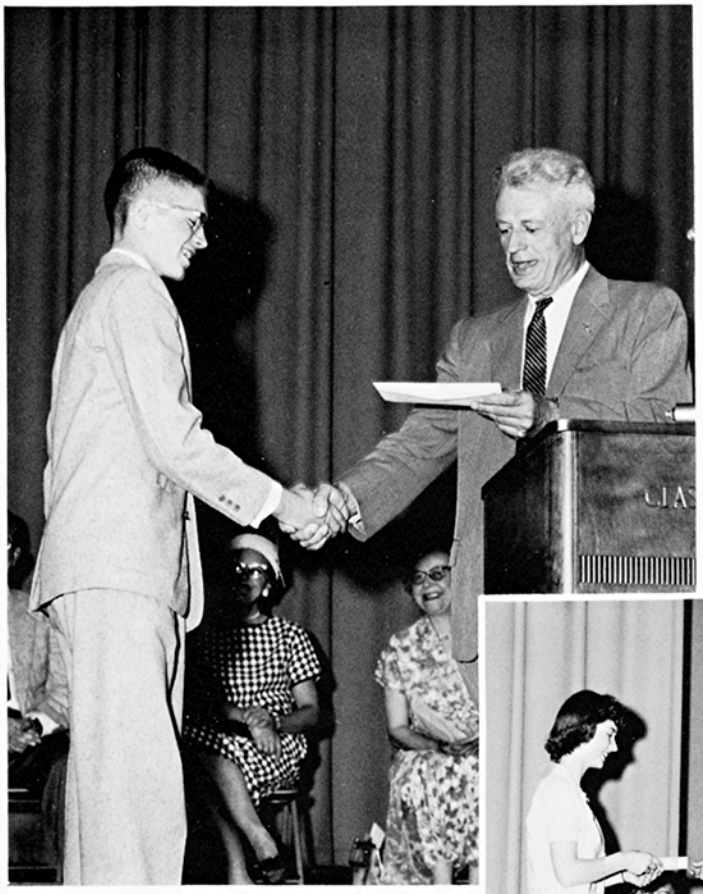

Chuck Harberg crowns John Splinter king of 1959 Class Day.

One of the highlights of the class will was the gift of a chicken to Miss Eames.

Graduation, the beginning of a new road, the end of an old road, will remain forever in the minds of all the Seniors.

We, the CLASS of 1959, wish to those who follow us, all the happiness and good times we have had in Watertown High School. May you have only success on the highway to your goals.
