

ORBIT 56

The first day of school is a fitting introduction for our yearbook which has chosen its theme from Poulsson's words:

"Books are keys to wisdom's treasure.
Books are gates to lands of pleasure."

Mr. Hinterberg, our Senior High principal, advises the students to make a conscientious start as their text books are issued for the 1955-1956 school year.

Thirty-seven years ago I was born--born of an architect's dream, a draftman's blueprints, and a mason's bricks. People poured through my doors and I lived. I had no life but that life within me; I had no voice but that voice of my people speaking out in my name; I had no name until my people made one for me--a name which stands for high academic achievements, good sportsmanship, and fine community relations. Mine is a foundation based upon the fundamental moral and spiritual values and the idea of equality among all men. I am Watertown High School.

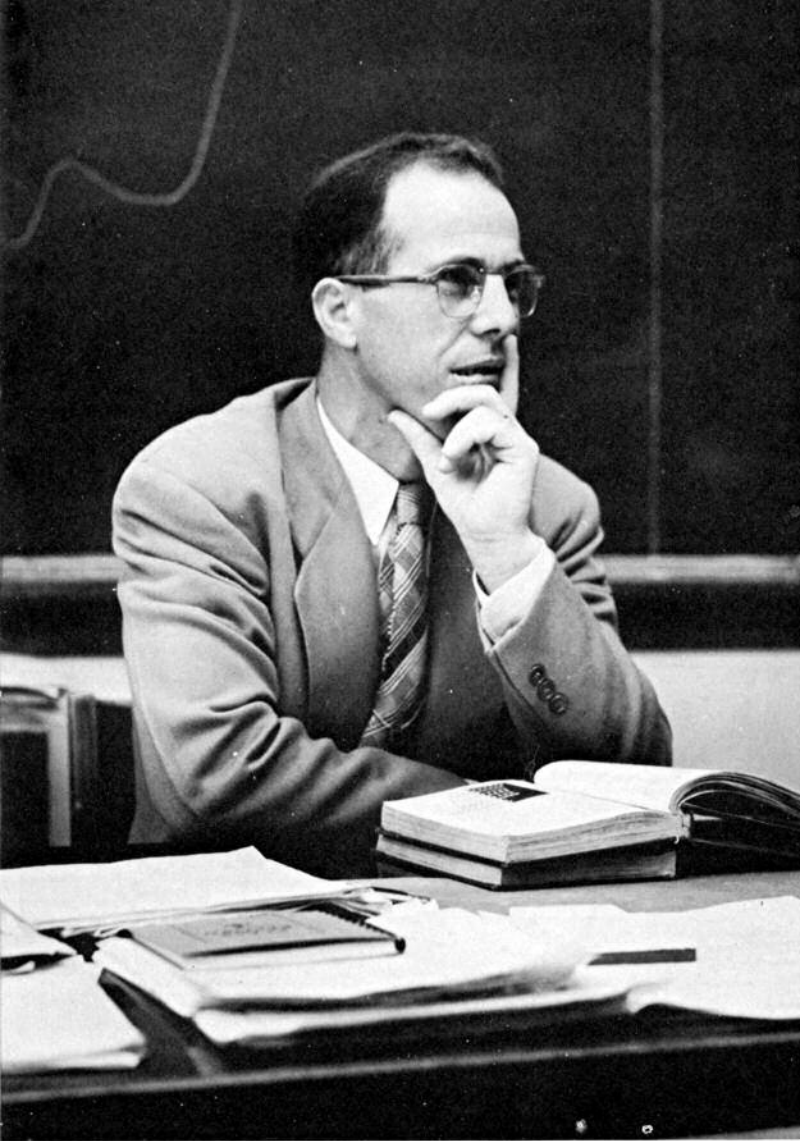

Time has passed, styles have changed, and fads have come and gone, but despite these exterior changes, the ideals of my students have remained constant--the ideals of self-reliance, dependability, and trust-worthiness. My only hope for the future is that the integrity of the students yet to come will be as high as that of the young men and women who have already passed through my halls to face the future, practicing the lessons of life learned within these walls.

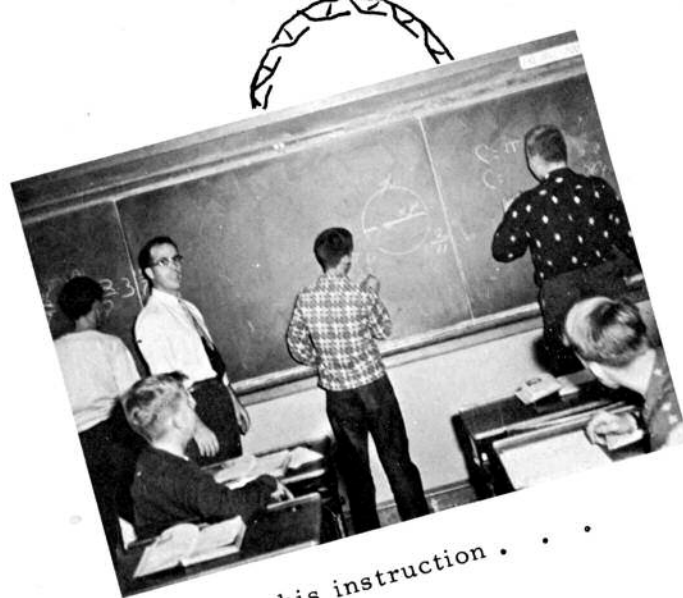

"Down In the Valley, valley so low . . ." Remember the tune? Of course we do! The entire music and dramatic departments along with the help of the student body made possible this tremendous fall production. This is just one of the many fine performances displayed through the combined time and effort of the students and faculty. We certainly can be proud of our alma mater for presentations such as this.

With the close of each school year this "activity" of signing ORBITS is probably the one which will linger in our memories the longest. In the future we will be able to glance back on our past, remembering our teachers and classmates and reliving some of the most exciting moments of the best years of our lives. Yes, the ORBIT, can be tagged a cherished memento of days at Watertown High.

To "Pete" Colletti for . . .

we, the class of 1956 dedicate this 44th edition of the ORBIT.

The members of the class of 1956

Administration

ROGER B. HOLTZ

Superintendent of Schools

B. A. Carroll College

M. A. University of Wisconsin

Expansion has been the big problem of schools since the arrival of our present superintendent, Mr. Holtz. He has met the challenge by promoting the completion of a grade school, the purchase of the properties for two other schools, and the forthcoming erection of an addition to the high school.

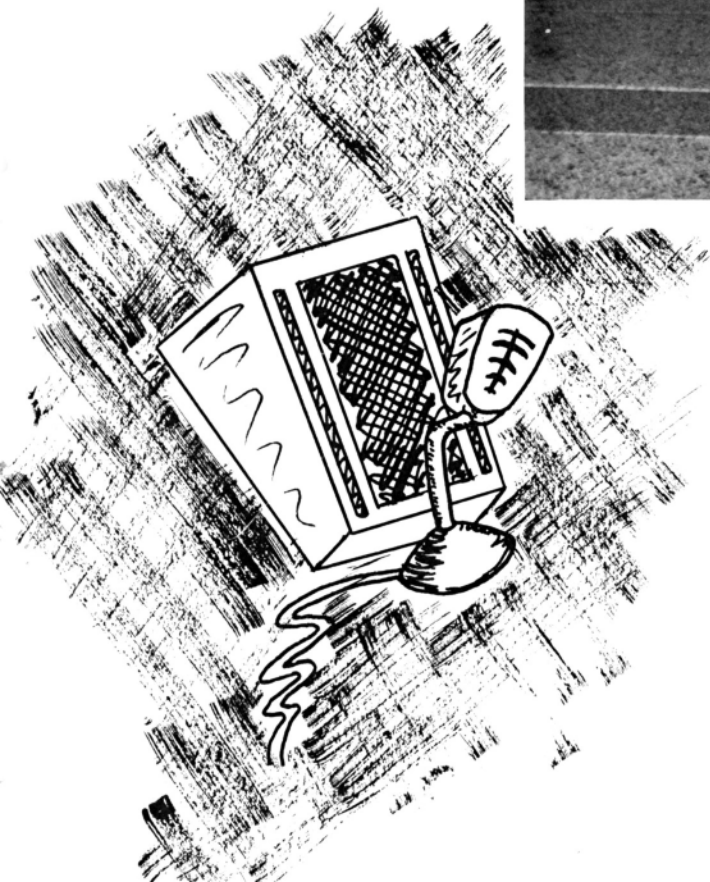

Board of Education

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The grand finale was a splendid tableau depicting the Nativity scene. This was portrayed beautifully through expert lighting and staging.

Though there was little narration in the program these two girls, Marilyn Carlson and Sue Chase, worked at the microphone.

The program consisted mostly of music, and the Mixed Chorus exhibited their talents during the program.

The orchestra added polish to the program through the excellent choice and variety of music.

These are students from "behind the scenes." Their efforts made possible the exclusive production.

MIXED CHORUS

Marching Band

The band forms a banjo in carrying out their theme of "Transatlantic Trip Through the U. S. A. ", for a between half stunt at the football games.

Concert Band

Those extra practices have resulted in precise formations and champion-like performance.

Senior Orchestra

This year our orchestra was invited to attend the Wisconsin Music Clinic at Madison. Their program received outstanding rating.

Junior Orchestra

Mrs. Komschlies, string instructor, directs the new students in preparation for their promotion to public concert performance.

Campus Band

The success of our dances depends largely upon good music which is well taken care of by our dance band.

Junior Band

The junior band has made us proud as they marched in the homecoming parade and civic events.

HI SCRIBBLER

Vol. XIII, No. 3

Watertown, Wisconsin

December 21, 1955

STAFF ORGANIZED

Have you ever wondered who makes possible our school newspaper every month? Well here it is! The editor-in-chief, Audrey Hoffer, carries the largest burden. She must read every article that is to be put in the paper and see that it gets to press on time.

Susan Lietzke and Karen Walworth, news editors, hand in a list of articles, which they would like on their page, for approval.

Literary editors, Jean Felper and Mary Lou Marr, have jobs similar to the news editors. Pete Huber, sports editor, lines up all important games and activities to be used on the sports page. Next, the reporters are given their assignments by the city editor, Ruth Schwenkner. She also sends our paper to other schools. After assignments are turned in they are proof-read by the copy editor, Gloria Splinter and others on the staff.

Corrections are made and the typists go to work. The final step is mapping out each page according to the length and importance of the news. Naturally all of this needs advising which is done by Miss Shunk.

That's the story from "behind the scenes" of our Hi Scribbler!

STANDING: Miss Shunk, Advisor, Jean Felper, Susan Lietzke, Mary Lou Marr, Gloria Splinter, Ruth Schwenkner. SEATED: Peter Huber, Audrey Hoffer, Karen Walworth.

The "Eds" and "Mac" are off to Chicago for the National Scholastic Press Convention.

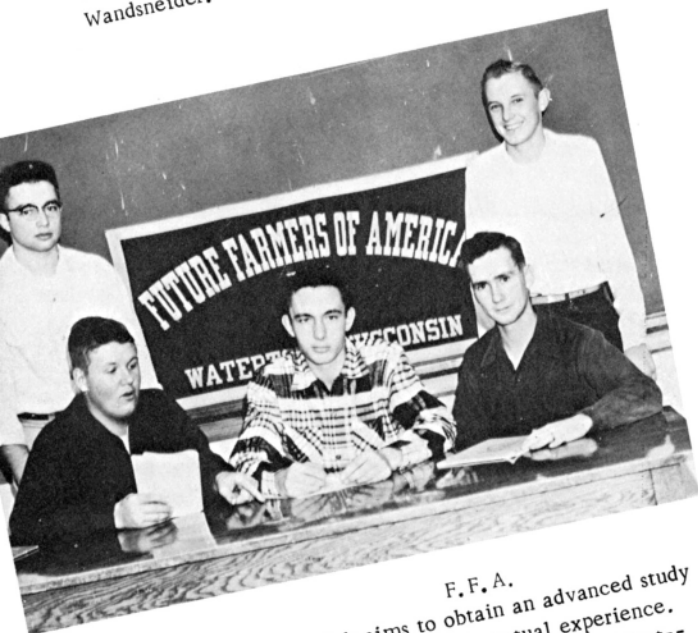

Eds--Editors Ruth Schwenkner, Kathleen Blaese, Mary Jane Staude and Carol Kohls, discuss important pages.

SERVICE CLUB

There are numerous public school events that occur each year and the purpose of this organization is to usher those guests to their seats. They also distribute programs at the door. President--Irmgard Oestreich; Chief--Louise Adams; Secretary-Treasurer--Patty Wandsneider.

F. F. A.

This club aims to obtain an advanced study of agriculture through actual experience. President--Don Neitzel; Vice-President--Lowell Pritchard; Treasurer--Fred Zastrow; Sentinel--Art Melcher; Reporter--Bill Schmidt; Advisor--Mr. Schultis.

MASK & WIG EXECUTIVE BOARD

The goals of this club are to promote the acting abilities of the students and to further their interests in the theatrical field.

G. A. A.

This athletic association for girls consists of a well-rounded curriculum. Sports such as basketball, tennis, baseball, and many others are undertaken throughout the year. President--Sue Franz; Vice-President--Carol Schlueter; Secretary-Treasurer--Kay Kaddatz.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." With this thought in mind, the club undertakes projects such as preparing gift boxes for the needy, making Afghans and other things.

President Mary Jane Staude
Vice-President Elaine Vergenz
Secretary Carolyn Kessler
Treasurer. Janet Gamroth
Advisor . . . Miss Ott

President--Tom Janke; Vice-President--Audrey Hoffer;
Secretary-Treasurer--Norm Schroeder.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS
If you ever have difficulty finding information in the library one of these girls will gladly assist you. They are awarded pins after four years of service.

PROJECTIONISTS CLUB

The boys participating in the club learn how to operate movie projectors and can be relied upon to assist in classroom projects.

STAGE CREW
These boys do all the building of necessary props and scenery for plays and programs. They are pictured adding the finishing touches for "Down In The Valley."

GIRLS CLUB

Members look forward to presenting a Christmas program for the residents at St. Joseph's Home, and who would miss the boy-girl discussion panel? Buzz books, fashion show, travelogues, and a trip to the city, round out an interesting program. President--Audrey Hoffer; Vice-President--Bobbie Krebs; Secretary-Treasurer--Sandra Nolte; Advisor--Miss Griffith.

THE HALL OF LITERARY FAME

.....A "hall of literary fame" should be composed of unforgettable people whose characters will live endlessly in the hearts and minds of their readers. The following such characters have been selected to comprise Watertown's Hall of Literary Fame.

I nominate for the Hall of Literary Fame.....

1st place

.....the Virginian because I admire his character and his easy going manner of living. I admire him chiefly because he stood out among any whom he encountered without appearing ostentatious, being the kind of man who affected people merely by his presence. He possessed an undaunted mettle which has made him famous for saying, "When you say that, smile." The Virginian recognized the force of evil and did everything possible to disregard it. He was endowed with all the characteristics of a great man--courage, humility, physical and moral strength, and a rich sense of humor--but never told anyone he was better than they; rather, he showed them.

Peter Huber

2nd place

.....Richard Henry Dana because he is a very adventurous soul and writes with the brogue and the salt of a sailor and still has the mentality of a Boston professor. He makes one shiver with Cape winds and swelter with tropical heat.

Ed Opprud

3rd place

.....Pogo. He is not an ordinary comic strip character; to comprehend Pogo, one must be well educated in the arts. Then the enjoyment begins. It is not degrading to admit to liking Pogo. Rather, it is a sign that you are intelligent enough to understand his message. Pogo is the nonpareil of relaxed minds. His outlook is that of a true Southern gentleman; he is an esthete in regards to the enjoyment of life to its utmost. Pogo lives as we should, but since we must conform to society, the next best thing for us to do is to live with Pogo whenever the opportunity avails itself.

Don Niemi

.....Horatio Hornblower. A master at naval strategy, a man of great emotion, and a ferocious fighter, yet Hornblower still has normal fears and conflicts. Hornblower's adventures are engrossing, real and unique.

David Coogan

.....Jane Eyre. She is the idol of all young girls and perhaps some women, too, because of her patience, kindness, and perseverance.

She was average in looks, very intelligent and sensible, and she possessed a quality not many girls could retain through the years of hardship which she encountered. This quality was the ability to stand up for her beliefs and not give up until she had reached her goal.

Marilyn Carlson

.....Jean Val Jean from Victor Hugo's Les Miserables. His struggle for the respect of his fellow men and his undaunted help to those he loved was not hampered by the terrible injustice committed against him. While his character also possessed weaknesses which at times seemed to overrule his helping hand, one can never forget his undying love, generosity, and self sacrifice which constitute a truly great man.

Mary Jane Staude

..... Jody Baxter. As a boy of about nine he represents human simplicity and pureness of mind and soul. Jody finds happiness with nature's creations and teaches others to appreciate natural wonders. Jody learns to love the animals and they return his love, and through all his experiences he learns how to cope with life. He radiates his qualities to all whom he meets: love, sympathy, honesty, carefree spirit, eagerness, and his zest for living.

Susan Nesta

..... George Washington Carver, loved Negro agricultural chemist, who worked unendingly to improve the slowly descending economy of the South. Though he was a very impoverished and lonely man, he cared not about himself but for the wellbeing of his discriminated race. Carver's lasting potency places him on a level with all great men. He performed his experiments not in an ostentatious manner but out of the goodness of his heart, hoping to elevate the standards of his people.

Kathleen Blaese

..... Clarence Day. By writing about his father, he has given the world something to laugh at and reminisce about. To the younger generation Father Day is merely an extremely humorous caricature, but to older readers he is a part of their own fathers. So, for portraying one of his group so humorously, but with a delicate touch of that "years gone by" emotion-tugging quality, I select Father Day.

Jean Felper

..... Scarlett O'Hara whose life portrayed the ruinous effects of war. Scarlett lived as she pleased. The feelings of others didn't move her, and she went after anything that didn't belong to her. Her heart was turned to stone during the Civil War, and those she had loved before meant little to her. Her only love was wealth which she gained through the broken hearts and tears of others.

Myra Johnsen

..... Count Dracula, a bloodthirsty creature nonpareil and worthy of recognition. The horror and realism with which the Count is described; his slender, icy hands, pointed teeth and fingernails, bushy eyebrow, ruddy complexion, and his muscles of steel build a mental picture that cannot be equalled. Count Dracula, being master vampire, rules over all the supernatural world. The Count also rules all the animals of violence and mystery, the wolf, the rat, and the bat. After sundown the elements are also at the Count's command. He can transform himself into a fog or a column of dust and can flow under closed doors.

Norman Schroeder

..... Albert Alligator, Pogo's sidekick. Although he is just as good and kind as the possum, Albert has a certain crooked loveableness about him that sets him apart from Pogo. Rather simple and emotional, Albert is a special type of "southern fried corn-ball." He is a well-meaning, loud, yet humble, goofball who keeps everything about him in amazing but likeable disorder. Prone to a few vices such as smoking "see gars" and fibbing, Albert is nonetheless a clean living rascal, as witnessed by his membership in the "Boy Flower Arrangers" club. Therefore for his loveable traits of sentimentality, happy philosophy, and "weel meaning" clumsiness, I nominate Albert to his stool in the Hall of Fame.

"Beautiful," chortled Johnny Applejack. He and his brother Corky were browsing through the high school library.

"I'd rather read a good book," returned Corky.

"Like these" 'My Life in a Purple Rocket'--by Pat Mullen, 'How to Argue'--by Allan Don, 'Life in a Sardine Can'--by the boys with the cafeteria line lockers, 'Watertown--Confidential'--by Charles Ebert, " "Say," said Johnny, "Some of these titles remind me of Students, See if you can guess who."

class "Cagey, man," said Johnny, "What else have you got to offer?"

"Here are some stirring mystery books:" 'Musical Mysteries or Who Drank my Value Oil'--Mike Hahn, 'I was a Gang-buster for the Mickey Mouse Club'--Bob Heiden, 'The Cream Puff Kid and the other stories'--Ed Opperud, 'Me the Judge', by Mickey Spilling."

"Spilling What?"

"Anything, he's a pig."

"Read some of that."

"Okay. It's Tuesday, 2:30. I sit at my desk and read my racing form. Suddenly--the Recess bell rings. I drop my paper in my drawer with the chewing gum and bottle tops. Then cocking my propeller beany at a rakish angle, I stride to the door. Blam! Something hits me and I sprawl to the floor. Dazed, I stagger gamely to my feet. Ever alert, I spy the culprit. My door is locked."

"Shh," admonished the librarian.

"My turn," whispered Corky, "I've got a copy of the Mother Goose changer."

'Hickory, Dickory, Dock

'Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?
Silver bells and Marquette students, she replies coyly.'

'There was a little girl who had a little curl
And then she changed it to a pony-tail.'

'Jack and Jill went up the hill to fetch a pail of water

- Jan. 11 Buzz books are distributed by the Girls Club. Some fellows are glad they don't have to pay ten cents a call at home.
- Jan. 19 Congratulations to our future playwright! Members of the Mask and Wig presented the Senior Class Workshop Play tonight. "Fleur et Incendie," written and directed by Tom Janke, drew a record crowd. All were enthused about the production.
- Jan. 25-26 Semester finals!! The first semester sure flew. And to think that some of us only have one more to go before----!
- Jan. 30 Second Semester begins. From here on in the seniors plan for a grand finale!
- Feb. 3 In third period study hall today, Ralph Krueger got moved for the ninth time this semester. Congratulations Ralph for setting a new record!
- Feb. 4 The teen-agers combined fun with service tonight by supporting the "Teens Against Polio" dance held at the Turner Hall. All present had an enjoyable time dancing to mood music as well as jazz, furnished by the Campus Band.
- Feb. 14 The first concert of a series of four was presented tonight by the band and mixed chorus. The most memorable portion, however, was the distribution of the high school letter to all senior music students.
- Feb. 22 Scene: College Prep Class. Pete H. was asked his opinion on traits of boys, he replied, "I wouldn't know; I'm not a boy I'm a man?"
- Feb. 28 Forensic eliminations were held tonight and ten people were judged capable of competing in the district contest to be held in Cedarburg.
- Feb. 29 Leap Year Day! We heard Mr. Dougan went into hiding.
- Mar. 3 Our basketball team has now completed their season and have been named the tournament consolation winners. In a different field, five students have obtained top ratings in Forensics and are well on their way to the state contest.
- Mar. 9 There was a big party in first period Problems class today, Celebrating Mr. Bloor's return from a week's "leave". Who was happier, he or the senior class?
- Mar. 13 Miss Mac Innis: "Teddy Roosevelt's supporters used the teddy bear as a campaign symbol. How many of you have teddy bears?" Mike M.: "Butch has Sharon Baer."
- Mar. 16 The Shamrock blooms loftily on high school walls.
- Mar. 19 Jim Corcoran campaigns for the I. R. A. but won't join the popular organization. Dave Coogan's reply to this is, "Let's tar and feather him!"
- Mar. 21 When a fellow wants a date, he generally gets it. Such was the case when a certain Junior boy signed out of study hall to day to ask his girl to the prom--via telephone! (The girl happened to be absent from school.)

Homecoming

The long awaited week-end of homecoming has come and gone. To get things underway, the parade with all its fun and frolic, was held on Thursday evening. There is always an air of rivalry when it comes to what class or club would walk away with honors for the floats. This year the juniors received first prize, and G. A. A. was awarded second place.

Friday night's game with Cedarburg was the scene of excitement and triumph although we tied with a score of 14-14. To climax the great event, the dance on Saturday was filled with an atmosphere of delight and merriment after the outstanding performance displayed by the football team the night before. Queen, Myra Johnsen, and her escort, Pete Huber, reigned over the dance, with the entire football squad acting as the court. All the excitement and festivity ended all too soon, but will linger in our memories as years fade on.
